

This transcript was exported on Dec 20, 2022 - view latest version here.

Speaker 1:

-When you're injured in a motor vehicle collision in New York State, regardless of whose fault the accident is, your medical bills will be paid for by the no-fault insurance for the car that you're in. You could be in an intersection collision or a hit from the rear, or a two car or three-car collision. In New York State, your medical bills for any treatment you need for injuries from the collision from the auto accident will be paid for by the no-fault insurance for the vehicle that you're in.