

This transcript was exported on Dec 12, 2022 - view latest version here.

Stephen Z. Williamson:

During my time there, I defended a number of police excessive force police brutality cases at trial in Brooklyn. Having worked for the city and having defended the police department and individual police officers at numerous trials in Supreme Court in Brooklyn, I understand these cases from the bottom up. I understand the issues involved. I understand the documents involved. I understand the law. And it gives me a perspective and an expertise and an advantage in prosecuting these cases now as a plaintiff's lawyer on behalf of those who are the victims of police misconduct.